The White Mountain Apache Tribe Earth Week 2010 Coloring Book was coordinated by the WMAT Environmental Protection Office (EPO). The EPO is proud to honor the artists of the "WMAT Earth Week 2010 art contest" by promoting the potential of the children of the Fort Apache Indian Reservation both in their artwork and in their understanding of what is important: the environment and the health of the Apache people.

The EPO protects, preserves, and regulates the Fort Apache Indian Reservation's natural resource through enforcement of regulatory laws and is dedicated to increasing environmental awareness to the Tribal public. The EPO oversees the Tribe's environmental programs such as air quality, water quality, underground storage tanks management, hazardous waste, and solid waste regulation.

A special thanks goes to the USEPA Region IX, Hon Dah Casino Resort and Conference Center, Land Operations, and Tribal Forestry whose assistance co-funded this project. Finally, thank you especially to the children whose artwork made this coloring book possible.
